PRESS RELEASE

Cerebral Palsy Association of Chester County is a winner of a 2016 Award for Continuing Excellence from Inglis.

This award will be presented to the organization at the ACE 10th Anniversary Celebration on Wednesday, May 18th at Inglis in Philadelphia.

Exton, PA: Cerebral Palsy Association of Chester County, a regional nonprofit organization that provides services to people with disabilities is honored to be a recipient of this distinguished award. The organization's mission is to enhance the abilities and support the independence of people with Cerebral Palsy and disabilities throughout their lives. They promote an accessible community where every child has educational success and where adults with disabilities participate and live as independently as possible.

This grant provided by Inglis honors the performance of not-for-profit organizations in the Greater Delaware Valley that provide direct services, products, and/or advocacy for people with disabilities. Inglis' mission is to enable people with disabilities – and those who care for them – to achieve their goals and live life to the fullest.

Cerebral Palsy Association of Chester County, a United Way Partner is also known as Chester County Disability Services and provides an exceptional Children's Early Intervention program and is a preferred Service Coordination provider for the Home and Community Based System. In addition, it provides various services that enhance the lives of people with disabilities including: advocacy, person centered counseling, assistive technology, social work, client assistance grants and Storytellers a group that meets monthly to express themselves through storytelling and artwork. Additionally, the Nursing Home Transition program has moved over 100 individuals', ages 24 to 59 back into the community where with support they lead independent lives.

This unrestricted award of $10,000.00 will assist the organization in continuing their social work services and providing Storytellers, our group of vibrant artists and writers.
